TEAM HANDICAPPED BY OVER-CONFIDENCE

Today's Game Will Be Hardest of Year, Says Coach—Must Win to Get Championship.

Today's Lineup.

T. Miller	left end
Koch	left tackle
Bower	left guard
West	center
Knuth	right guard
James	right tackle
Lehman	right end
S. Wynstra	quarter
Woodrow	right half
F. Swank	left half
Crisp	fullback

Over-confidence will be the chief handicap under which the Normal school team will work this afternoon. Spokane university, even though beaten by Spokane college, will play a hard game today. It is the desire of the university to see the Normal school beaten. Today's game will undoubtedly be the hardest conference game, and the Normal must win it in order to get the championship—Coach A. A. Eustis.

No changes in the Normal lineup are contemplated when the team meets the Spokane university team at 1 o'clock this afternoon in what Coach Eustis considers the hardest game of the season. The team that started the game against Spokane college Saturday and paved the way for a victory of 52 to 0 for the Normal school will also start today's game, unless Coach Eustis finds it advisable to make a switch at the last moment.

"The team played a good game at Spokane Saturday," says Coach Eustis. "It would be difficult to pick out any stars. Had the same type of football been played against the W. S. C. frosh, the score would have been different.

"Stanley Wwnstra and Forest Swank played well at quarter and at halfback, while Miller's work at end was very satisfactory. The showing made by Hite, Crawford Howe, Mitcheil and Brownell assures them places on the first string squad and will make competition for places on the team keep throughout the season.

The Spokane university team will come here with the advantage of weight, and the practice which it has had since its defeat by Whitworth a week ago, together with the desire to take the scalp of the Normal team, will force the Normal school to exert every effort to win. Our greatest enemy today is over-confidence."

The Normal team scored during the first five minutes of play against Spokane college Saturday. The teams played evenly during the remainder of the quarter and the Spokane team did not begin to weaken until the second quarter. The Normal backfield began to make end runs and line plunges for substantial gains in the second quarter. Miller received a long forward pass from F. Swank and ran several yards for a touchdown. Another touchdown was made in the second quarter. Swank kicked goal, and the score stood 19 to 0 at the end of the quarter.

Scoring was rapid during the third and fourth quarters, and Coach Eustis began to draw out his first team men and to send in substitutes. Crawford, who entered the game in the third quarter, made two long successful drop kicks. Four more touchdowns were made during the quarter.

Entertain Methodist Girls.

The Women's Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church entertained the Methodist Normal girls at a tea in Dr. Clara Greenough's reception room last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. N. D. Showalter presided at the tea table and was assisted by Mrs. H. H. Young. Mrs. Charles Bowman, who was to address the girls, was unable to be present at the tea.

DEVELOP CORRECT SPEECH

Class in Juvenile Literature Working Out Plans for "Good English" Week in November.

Corrections of speech and the development of a pride in the English language are the reasons given by Dr. Ralph E. Tieje, head of the department of language and literature, for the "good English" week which will be held at the Normal school the second week in November.

Posters which attract the eye and show the correct form of common errors in English will appear in conspicuous places about the building during the week, and a morality language play will be given during the week at one of the morning assembly periods. The program is being worked out by the class in juvenile literature.

Treble Clef Entertains.

The following program, in the interest of the juniors, was given by the Treble Clef club yesterday afternoon.

"Longing," piano solo, Betty Kingston; violin selections, Helen Jensen; "Gipsy Rondo," piano solo, Miss Reynolds.

FIRST FORMAL DANCE COMES ON OCTOBER 29

President and Mrs. Showalter and Board of Trustees Will Welcome Visitors Saturday Night.

The first all-school formal will be held in the Normal gymnasium tomorrow night from 8 to 11. In the receiving line will be President and Mrs. N. D. Showalter, Dean Spaeth, C. S. Kingston, Grace Dicus and the trustees, Mrs. Mary A. Monroe, Senator C. E. Meyers and V. T. Tustin.

Patrons and paroneses are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. J. DeForest Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Whitford and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Merriman.

Chairmen of student committees are as follows:

Decorations, Nell Currie; music, Will Knuth; refreshments, Margaret Swanson.

Announce Y. W. Committees.

Committee chairmanships for the Y. W. C. A. were announced Friday morning by President Mae Eikins as follows:

Finance, Grace Moulton; social, Mary Buchanan; program, Leah Horton; service, Mabel Henry; membership, Jessie Finlay; publicity, Virginia Showalter.

Club Makes Money.

The Ellen H. Richards club cleared $13.50 from the candy sale at the movie show Saturday night.

Entertains Assembly.

Juanita Houston, representing Monroe Hall, entertained with a reading at assembly Tuesday morning.

Reorganize Cheney Unit.

The Cheney unit of the National Education association, comprising the faculties of the Cheney public school and the Normal school, has reorganized and elected the following officers:

President, N. D. Showalter; vice president, J. W. Lindley; secretary-treasurer, W. E. Haeseler of the Normal school commerce department.

LIMITATION OF PLAY HOUR

Large Attendance Makes It Necessary for School to Limit Affair to Normal Students.

Limitation of attendance at the Tuesday evening play hour has been found necessary on account of the large attendance, says Dean Spaeth, who calls attention to decisions of the faculty social committee in the following statement:

"The Normal school faculty in charge of the social life of the students have found it necessary to make new rulings in regard to persons eligible to attend the Tuesday evening play hour. They regret that the unusually large enrolment this year makes it necessary to exclude visitors not connected with the institution and all those students who are carrying work entitling them to less than 10 full Normal school credits.

"This ruling, therefore, excludes from attendance at the Tuesday evening play hour all high school students, who, although carrying 10 credits at the Normal, are still counting them toward high school requirements."

OUTLINE WORK OF Y. W. C. A. FOR YEAR

Permanent Advisory Board for Organization Is Organized—Y. W. C. A. Belongs to Girls.

The Y. W. C. A. work of the Normal girls for this year, as outlined by Miss Alice Brown of Seattle, student field secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in the northwest, will consist of two meetings each month, which will be given over to making the Y. W. C. A. room in the Normal more attractive and to the discussion of personal problems of the Normal students, important present-day movements in which Normal students should be interested and the presentation of the industrial program of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Brown was a visitor at the Normal school last Friday.

The Y. W. C. A. hopes to cooperate with the extension departments of the Normal and churches, she said.

It is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. girls to make the association a center of friendliness and fellowship. In addition to the other work several social events will be given.

"In order to bring these ideals to pass," said Miss Brown, "every girl who is interested should take part. It is a chance for the Normal girls to be self-determinative. The Y. W. C. A. is theirs. We want them to appropriate their possession."

In order to give permanence to the association, because officers and members change so frequently, Dean Spaeth has made arrangements with a group of Cheney women to act as a permanent advisory board. This board will meet with the Y. W. C. A. cabinet once a month. Members of the board are as follows:

Mrs. N. D. Showalter, Mrs. J. E. Buchanan, Mrs. Robert D. Baldwin, Mrs. J. DeForest Cline, Mrs. J. W. Hunge, Mrs. George E. Craig and Mrs. Curtis Merriman.

SIX STUDENTS LIKE DIRECT TAX SCHEME

Believe Books and Candy Should Be Taxed for Benefit of Normal Pipe Organ Fund.

Suggestions from six students, in contrast to the large majority, imply that some form of direct tax would be a desirable means of augmenting the pipe organ fund. "One way would be to charge more for Normal picture shows," Ella Jarvis says, while Vivian Rader believes a tag day would accomplish a great deal. "On the day specified," she says, "each student should be required to contribute 10 cents to the fund. In this way at least twenty or thirty dollars could be raised for the good cause."

A direct assessment of 10 cents a month on each student is recommended by Helen Anderson. "Ten cents a month, or 30 cents a quarter, does not seem much for each individual," she declares, "but it will go a long way toward obtaining the pipe organ."

"In order to raise money for the pipe organ fund, so the students will not be taxed too much, I suggest that a small tax be attached to the purchase of books from the bookstore, and that candy sold in the bookstore be taxed," says Esther Ragan. "If a student can afford to buy candy, he can afford to pay a tax."

Refunds on deposits for chemistry and lockers at the end of each quarter might well be diverted to the organ fund, Lorna Hays believes, "if the students are willing."

Despite these recommendations, however, many of those expressing opinions on the subject believe that money for the organ fund should come from the student body only in the form of a charge for some entertainment or service. Jewel Pope would have the students in the music department, as the group most interested in obtaining the organ, give a musical program. "Every one would enjoy such an entertainment," she claims, "and would do his bit toward helping to buy the organ."

Candy sales, tag days, vaudeville and country fairs are recommended by divers persons, each believing that the desire for entertainment on the part of the students could be satisfied within the school and the profits accruing therefrom placed to the credit of the organ committee.

"Urge your friends to come here instead of going to other movie shows," says Frances Gray. "What little profit is made here is turned over to the organ fund."

Making fancy work and selling it to the public is offered by Flossie Holloway as a practical means of earning money. "Almost all girls do some kind of fancy work," she says. "Why doesn't each girl start some piece of fancy work, on which she can work when her lessons are prepared, and then fit up a bazaar? Almost every housewife is kept so busy that she doesn't have any time to do much fancy work, and would be glad to buy what she knew to be hand-made."

Birthday parties, at which each person would be required to bring "enough pennies to equal his age," is suggested by Georgia Bennett. "It may be any kind of party, with any kind of entertainment," she adds, "but each person must bring enough pennies to equal his years of age. This will serve as a beginning for the fund, and will not work a hardship on any of the students."

Reference Songs and Yells.

Next time the student body practices songs and yells in assembly, a mimeographed copy of them should be handed to each student as he or she enters the auditorium. There are many new students at the Normal this year, who do not know the school songs and yells. This is just what our boys need to help them win in football and in numerous other sports in which they may engage.—Vivian Rader.

The Pine Trees.

Few of us realize what the pine trees add to the campus of the Normal. We go to and from the building many times each day without stopping to think of the beauty of the campus. There is the nice green lawn all around the building, with numerous flower beds beautifully arranged, and along the walks are many different kinds of shrubs, but best of all are the beautiful, scattering pines. These give the campus a touch of natural beauty.—Helen Anderson.

Value of Assembly.

Every student should attend assembly every morning. After one has been concentrating upon studies for several hours, it is well to relax for a few minutes and engage in recreation in the form of singing, practicing yells or listening to a lecture. Besides, faculty members make announcements which they desire very much that the students hear. If students do not attend regularly, they will miss announcements of important class meetings and instructions which the faculty expects them to follow. For these reasons every student should be prompt and regular at assembly.—Reta M. Smith.

Money for the Pipe Organ.

Money could be raised for the pipe organ by a series of programs given in the auditorium by each student organization and club of the Normal. There is a great deal of talent among the students, and it would not require a great deal of time and effort for each organization to present a program, for persons so talented are glad to help in a good cause. A small admission fee could be charged each time. A large number of the students would attend, because they all enjoy a good program and also realize what a benefit a pipe organ would be to the Normal.—Reta Smith.

The Organ Fund.

In order to purchase a pipe organ for the Normal, the students will have to help raise the funds. Giving a vaudeville has been tried in several schools, and it has been successful. Each class might give a program of stunts and one-act plays, and the Dramatic club would probably contribute and a small admittance fee charged. The students would be able to make a contribution to the fund.—Erma Dick.

The Organ Fund.

It is an easy task to write on paper ways of raising money for the pipe organ fund, but it is an entirely different matter to work these things out. Means of raising money that have been successful in some places might be a total failure here. Short programs might be given during the assembly periods, charging 10 cents for each student. Recitations and fancy dancing, with piano solos and singing, could constitute the program. By this method the money given would be from the student body as a whole, and would not be a drain on any one. Of course, the required amount could not be raised by this method, but it would be a beginning.—Florence Brown.

The Organ Fund.

One way to raise money for the pipe organ is to give literary programs, charging a small fee. The entire student body might be divided into many groups, and each of these groups would be expected to give an entertainment at a certain time. Each entertainment would be different, because each person in the different groups would be allowed to choose what he or she was most capable of doing. This means of raising the pipe organ fund would be enjoyed by almost every one, and each student would be benefited by taking part in such a program.—Alice Harbour.

Assistant Yell Leader.

Rhea Smith was elected assistant yell leader of the student body of the Normal school, succeeding Phineas Pearl, resigned.

Who's Who

Mae Elkins, president of the Normal school Y. W. C. A., is a graduate of the Oakesdale high school, where she served as president of the student body during her senior year. Miss Elkins taught for two years in the grade school at Reardan after completing her junior year at the Normal. She is a member of the Dramatic club, the Lyric glee club and the Ellen H. Richards club.

Jimmie's Letter

Dear Ma—Do you know, ma, we had a real style show last Wednesday and the girls were showed how to dress and how not to dress but the boys weren't allowed to attend. I think it was about time some of the girls around here was learning how to dress for its something fierce the way their skirts look. A lot of them try to make you believe they are little by cutting their skirts off below the knees but they can't fool me. They can put things over on a lot of them but I'm a little bit too much for them, ma.

Ma what would think if I told you some girls have cootie garages in their hair? Well, that's what they have got. You know what a garage is, a place where you put your Ford when you aint using it. Well, a cootie garage is a place covered with hair that sticks out over each ear where the cooties park when they ain't playing hide and seek with each other. Some of the girls evidently want to break up the cootie gangs for they cut off their hair. That's what you call bobbing it. Funny, aint it, ma? Trying to make themselves look young. No use, though, ma. Your son can see through anything like that.

Some think its smart to wear lace stockings that you can see through and this here Dr. Tiejie what bawls me out for not using apostrophes says that he has ordered green goggles for himself and all of the men teachers in his department. Aint it awful, ma, to run up his expenses like that when it would all be avoided if it was not for the lace stockings?

Other ways the girls here has of making themselves look funny is wearing high heels so that there is danger of them falling over if they step in a hurry. I suppose they want to be able to fall over so some boy will catch them but there aint enough boys here for that ma, and its foolish for them to think about it.

Others think they are making an awful hit because they make red splotches on their face with paint. This red stuff is called rouge which mean red in French and makes you look like you was blushing just a little bit in one spot at a time. Then they pluck out their eyebrows and make pencil marks across them so they will look like movie actresses and I wouldnt be surprised if some of them wore false wigs. They say that some of the stuff you put on your hair will make it all come out and I've been wondering if some of the men on the faculty havent been using it for years for they aint got enough hair to speak about. But that aint what I started out to tell you about.

But the thing that gets my goat most of all, ma is to see girls with punctuation marks all over their forehead. If they had as much trouble as me trying to remember commas and apostrophes they wouldnt be turning question marks upside down on their foreheads and making them with curls. Then some of them have what you call a camouflaged dimple, which is made the way the allies made their ships during the war so the submarines would be fooled. But I aint fooled, ma.

Well, ma, I've told you all about the girls here but I dont let on to them what I think because some of them would get sore at me and it is too close to the formal to have that happen so I'm just keeping things to myself. But I bet after the style show of last Wednesday there will be an improvement. I can hardly wait until the formal tomorrow night so I can see what kind of dresses they will wear.

Wish I had a dress suit ma, but I guess the girls will be glad enough to dance with me in my old suit.

Your loving son,
Jimmie.

Senior Hall girls spending the week-end in Spokane were: Edna Sonnemeier, Mildred O'Dell, B. Roberts, Evon Abbott, V. Eaton, Hazel Keillogg, Mae Elkins, F. Naughton, R. de Heus, M. Crane and R. Howard. Helen Douglas spent Saturday in Spokane.

Those spending the week-end in various places were:

M. Purcell and A. Wilcoxon, Almira; F. Bloom and F. Fowler, Mead; Bonnie and Pearl Kunz, Wilbur; F. Selde, Davenport; Jessie Finlay, Parkwater; Beth Trainor, Rosalia; N. Swenson and H. Knapp, Harrington; E. Wilson, Hillyard; Hattie Smith, Cecil Hargrave, Carolyn Fish, Sprague; Grace Dieus, Oakesdale; G. Bennett, Chewelah.

William Elkins of Oakesdale was a Sunday guest of Grace Dieus.

C. Hill of Davenport was a guest of Linda McCoid.

Hank Nopson of Oakesdale was a Sunday guest of Mae Elkins.

Coarse Hands and Big Feet Delight Students

The Normal gymnasium was the scene of much mirth last Friday night, when an all-school Halloween party was held.

Tall women with coarse hands and large feet, clowns and innumerable pairs of twins added a touch of mystery to the evening.

The gymnasium was decorated with black and orange streamers and corn stalks.

The first part of the evening was given over to games, after which refreshments, consisting of cider and doughnuts, were served. The entertainment closed with a dance.

Decorations were planned by the following committee:

Helen Douglas, chairman; Winnifred Roderick, Maurine Clancy and Ruth Kellogg.

The program and refreshment committees were as follows:

Program—Frankie Trimble, Rosie McCiure, Blanche Swinford, Georgia Bennett and Ruby Bakala.

Refreshment—Myrl Daley, Clara Peterson, Gladys Bernard and Oneita Olson.

Style Show Gives One Close-up on Dress Fads

A Style show whose purpose was to show the girls of the Normal school proper and improper ways of dressing, sitting, walking, standing and improper styles of doing hair, was held in the Normal auditorium before a large group of mothers and girl students Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6.

Clothes for different occasions were shown in groups. School clothes, sport clothes, suits and coats, fancy blouses, afternoon dresses and evening dresses. The dresses were all shown on live models. Girls with heavy hair styles walked across the stage and pirouetted several times for the visitors. Then girls who had their hair dressed in proper and becoming manner showed their hair styles from several angles.

Many of the gowns shown were made by the wearers, color combinations, dainty handiwork, and clever designing being original ideas worked out by the girls.

Walking, sitting and standing were also demonstrated by the girls, the improper way being contrasted with the proper. There were 85 or more different dresses displayed in the show.

Miss Lorna Hays representing the students, and Miss Edith Patterson were in charge of the show.

Monroe Hall

Monroe Hall girls who spent the week-end in Spokane are as follows:

Elizabeth Dudley, Edna Boomer, Bernadine Grant, Margaret Prince, Lydia Raymond, Geraldine Gould, Berenice U'Ren, Vayle Nogle, Cora Wood, Dorothy Busse, Juanita Houston, Blanche Swinford, Maud Maurer, Helen Neffeler, Mildred Wilt, Margerite Kennedy, Lorna Hays, Dorothy Dicken, Mabel Hawkins, Margaret Wagner, Friedabourg Dagefoerde, Elva Carlson, Eulalie Brown, Lodema Cole, Frances Snell, Mabel Rinker, Lillian Freeman, Norma Bach and Allegra O'Rouark.

Others who spent the week-end out of town: Juanita Houston, Colbert; Cora Haltman, Sunset; Claire De Line, Bonners Ferry; Noreine Wells, Colfax; Gladys Barnard and Margaret Madsen, Reardan; Myrtle Ashley and Jewel Pope, Opportunity; Ruth Beaumont, Malden; Lena Maurer, Rosalia; Florence Coles and Alice Martin, Post Falls, Idaho; and Dorotha Andrews, Amber.

CUTTING SALARIES IS COSTLY ECONOMY

Great Educational Wastes Due to Poor Administration, Says W. J. Sutton.

Cutting teachers' salaries in order to stop the "financial leaks" in education in Washington is false economy, declared Senator W. J. Sutton of Cheney, former president of the Normal school, in an address before the state tax investigation committee recently. Senator Sutton was chairman of the public school administrative code commission, whose recommendations failed of passage in the state senate last winter by one vote.

"The greatest waste in the expenditure of public funds in the state today is due to inefficient school administration," he said. "The remedy for the high cost of education should be sought here, not in the reduction of teachers' salaries. If we want strong teachers, we must pay for them. The present salary schedule is not too high. The chief trouble heretofore has been that teachers were underpaid. It took a world war to force the salaries of teachers to a decent level.

"It is generally recognized that the greater part of the cost of education should go to the teachers, but it doesn't. One would be amazed at the amount of money that is wasted on education in Washington. Schools are being maintained at a great loss in many districts, and there are instances on record of district officials importing children in order to maintain a school in the district. Under the county unit administration, it would be possible not only to abolish such conditions, but also to consolidate schools and to reduce the teaching force materially.

"We don't need more money for the schools of the state now, but we do need to eliminate this enormous waste. There is urgent need, however, for equalization of school taxes. There should be equalization between counties and between districts within the county. The state tax is the fairest tax that can be levied, because it affects the entire wealth of the state equally. One district is not penalized to the benefit of another under a state system of taxation.

"Under the present system it is possible to waste so much money that the code commission does not think it advisable to increase the state tax unless the county unit plan of administration is adopted to see that the money is wisely expended."

Dorothy Briggs, Mary Buchanan and Janett Craig were dinner guests of the Apache club Sunday.

The Pipe Organ Fund.

One of the most practical ways of raising money for the pipe organ fund would be to increase the dues for student activities. Every student will be benefited by the pipe organ, or at least will enjoy it, and it is only fair that all should help to pay for it. The increase in dues might be made to cover the total amount charged one person for the movies during a quarter and a season ticket issued. This would mean a definite, regular income, a larger net profit than under the present system, and increased attendance at the shows.—Madge Cox.

Spokane college, unable to gain through the Normal line, resorted to the forward pass, completing several but failing to make much yardage. One forward pass was intercepted by Snyder, who ran 30 yards for a touch-down.

Features of the game were long end runs by Woodrow and Swank, line plunges by Crisp and Wynstra and the kicking of Crawford.

The lineup was as follows:

The standing of the conference teams to date is as follows:

Whitworth 13, Spokane U 0.

Spokane college 7 Spokane U 3.

Normal school 52, Spokane college 0.

Spokane university defeated the Normal school twice last year and won the conference championship. The scores were as follows:

Spokane U 0, Normal 14; Spokane U 13, Normal 0; Spokane U 33, Normal 0.

Alumni News

Stevens County.

Forty-three pledges, aggregating more than $155, were made to the organ fund by teachers of Stevens county at the institute in Colville last week. This is the largest contribution that has yet been received from any county, although there are fewer Cheney-trained teachers in Stevens county than in some of the other counties of eastern Washington. The following signed pledge cards:

Dorothy Engelhardt, Marbie; Gertrude L. Short, Clayton; Amanda A. Harris, Rice; Madge V. Witt, Chewelah; M. E. Betz, Chewelah; Gertrude Sargent, Chewelah; Anna Lar., Springdale; Lillian B. Yeakey, Daisy; Lillian Noyes, Colville; G. L. Putnam, Colville; Grant T. Pond, Colville; Fred R. Gifford, Marcus.

Lincoln County.

Six Lincoln county teachers signed organ pledge cards at the Lincoln county institute at Davenport last week. Cards were distributed among other former Cheney students, and additional pledges are expected by mail. The following signed cards:

Clara A. Keinholtz, Harrington; Elizabeth MacMillan, Edwall; E. Ferne Lair, Govan; Itha Winchell, Sprague; Margaret Anderson, Harrington; Veryl Erich, Harrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Frasier spent the week-end in Spokane.

Hairpins Block Traffic Between the Dormitories

Enough hairpins to supply a department store for several weeks are scattered in the street and on the sidewalks between Senior Hall and Monroe Hall. Hungry damsels rushing madly to meals drop quantities of hairpins as they go. Humpback, bone, invisible, bronze, gold and hairpins of every description and make form the collection.

Young men passing along "Hairpin boulevard" gaze in amazement on them and make humorous remarks about the number that a woman can use without looking like a porcupine, and other clever witticisms. It has even been suggested by one wag that a special street sweeper be employed to keep the traffic from becoming obstructed.

On account of the formal dance on Saturday evening, the Yep Kanum club will postpone its regular Saturday morning hike until October 6.

The Charm of Passing Years Lives in Portraiture

THE FAMILY treasure chest holds no more cherished reminders of loved ones than their photographs.

Realize what your pictures may mean to those who will some day note their resemblance to you. Be photographed frequently so that your personality will be carried down to your grandchildren.

"No portrait is so completely satisfying as one made by a professional photographer."
